Timothy J. Rogers Summer Dissertation Fellowship

Students are required to submit all requested materials through IU Scholarships by March 1.

The fellowship competition is held every year. The award of $4,000 is made to a student who meets the following criteria:

- The student is enrolled in the PhD in Hispanic Linguistics or Hispanic Literatures and Cultures.
- The student has had their proposal approved by their Ph.D. dissertation committee. The proposal must have been defended within the 4 semesters preceding the period of the award.
- The dissertation proposal must be defended and submitted to the University Graduate School within 12 months of completing the Ph.D. exams.
- The student is expected to devote full time to the dissertation and not accept work or other awards during the period of the fellowship. The student shall spend the three-month period either on campus or doing on-site research, and must inform the committee of their whereabouts.

Students who have received this award in the previous year are not eligible. To be considered for the award, students must submit the following items:

1. A copy of the dissertation proposal.
2. A statement of progress on the dissertation (1-2 pages).
3. Supporting material: evidence of progress to date on dissertation (for example, table of contents, chapter outlines, bibliography, chapter drafts, completed chapters).
4. A statement from the dissertation director on the current status of the dissertation (the dissertation director will be invited to upload the statement directly to IU scholarships).

If the evaluation committee determines that no application merits the award, the fellowship will not be awarded.
